7712 Rhins Coast Path for visitors_hi-res2 1 17/06/2024 13:07

PLACE-NAMES

For hundreds of years Gaelic was the dominant language of the area and it has left a rich legacy in the landscape. Place-names we use everyday show evidence of the ebb and flow of people who lived on the Rhins coast. Many of these place-names have changed their pronunciation, and been reinterpreted over time, as the various languages have come and gone.

The publication of the first Ordnance Survey maps in the 19th century resulted in the standardised forms of placenames we have today. These names were collected by surveyors unfamiliar with the local Scots dialect and long after Gaelic was spoken natively in the area.

Mistakes and misinterpretation were common at a time when place-names were often a Scots phonological adaptation of Gaelic words or a translation of the original meaning. Through this process the derivation of place-names has been blurred or redefined to support local stories.

FNJOYING THE RHINS

Explore the fantastic fringes of the Rhins peninsula on this 83-mile (133km) coastal trail. Enjoy the stunning scenery of Scotland's south-west coast from the sheltered waters of Loch Ryan to the windswept cliffs of the Mull of Galloway.

The path incorporates the Mull of Galloway Trail and is divided into 6 sections that are designed to be manageable in a single day, although some are shorter than others. Each section has unique features with rich natural treasures and lively cultural heritage for you to discover.

If you are looking for something less strenuous there are 5 short circular walks that give you a flavour of the amazing Rhins coast.

Gates and bridges have been installed along the waymarked route as well as orientation and interpretation panels.

Find detailed information by visiting www.dgtrails.org

USING THE ROUTE

The countryside on the Rhins of Galloway is a working environment and you will meet cattle on sections of this path. Please familiarise your self on how to behave around cattle and follow the Scottish Outdoor Access Code.

Respect the privacy, safety and livelihoods of those living or working in the countryside.

Enjoy your visit to the coast, but always remember to take responsibility for your own actions.

The coast is precious so take care of the environment.

Scottish weather can be unpredictable and the coast rugged and remote. Check weather forecasts and take appropriate clothing and footwear. Tell a family member or friend where you are going and when you expect to be back.

The coast is bursting with life so try and avoid disturbing wildlife and livestock. To protect shore-nesting birds and farm animals always keep dogs under close control and bag and bin dog waste.

Please use car parks to avoid blocking field gates and obstructing single lane roads.

Funded by

Dumfries

& Galloway

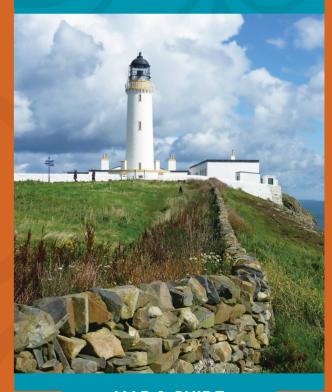

Comhairle Dhian Phris is Gall-Ghàidheallbh

www.dgtrails.org

CEUM-OIRTHIR RANNA GHALL-GHÀIDHEALAIBH

MAP & GUIDE

TO WALKING SCOTLAND'S SOUTHERN PENINSULA

17/06/2024 13:07 7712 Rhins Coast Path for visitors hi-res2 2

6 PATH SECTIONS

22km 1 Loch Ryan & North Coast

From Stranraer in the sheltered Loch Ryan to Corsewall Lighthouse perched on the rocky shore.

From the tiny village of Port Logan follow a track between cattle grazed fields before returning to a dramatic coast to the Mull of Galloway.

5 South East Coast 21km

4 South West Coast 20km

2 North West Coast 24km

Starting at Corsewall Point follow the wild and rugged coast to Portpatrick.

3 West Coast 25km

Leaving the southern most point of Scotland you join the Mull of Galloway Trail and descend cliffs to the shingle and sandy shore of Luce Bay towards Ardwell village. 6 East Coast 20km

From Ardwell follow the shoreline along the Mull of Galloway Trail to the village of Sandhead before heading across farm land and your destination, Stranraer.

Mull of Galloway
Maol nan Gall

Circular clifftop walks to the southern-most point of Scotland and across farmland to the opposite side of the peninsula.

PORT LOGAN FISHPOND ©Crown Copyright and Database right 2024. All rights reserved. Ordnance Survey lic. 1000

Mull of Galloway

CARVED STONES BIRD WATCHING

MUSEUM

CASTLE

GOLF COURSE

GARDEN

Q

LIGHTHOUSE